INFORMATION SHEET

Costs of Residential Aged Care

The costs of Residential Aged Care are determined by the Commonwealth Department of Social Services (DSS) / Department of Health and vary according to a resident's income and assets, level of care, date of entry and whether or not the resident is a pensioner. The rates are reviewed regularly by DSS / Department of Health.

Costs include:

1. Basic Daily Fee
2. Means Tested Contributions
 - a. Hotelling Contribution
 - b. Non-clinical care Contribution
3. Accommodation Costs (if applicable)

1. Basic daily fee

Every aged care home resident pays a basic daily fee, regardless of their means. This fee helps pay for daily living services such as meals, cleaning, facilities management, and laundry. You pay this fee directly to your aged care home, generally on a fortnightly or monthly basis. The fee applies for every day you are a resident, including days when you might be away overnight – for example, on holiday or in hospital.

The basic daily fee is set at 85% of the single person rate of the basic age pension. The government indexes it on 20 March and 20 September each year.

Based on current rates, the maximum basic daily fee is $65.55 per day, or $23,925.75 per year.

2. Contributions based on your means assessment

- Hotelling contribution: This is an additional contribution that some people on 1 November 2025 fee arrangements pay towards daily living services such as meals, cleaning and laundry.
- Non-clinical care contribution (NCCC): This is an amount that some people on 1 November 2025 fee arrangements pay to cover personal care, such as bathing, mobility assistance, and lifestyle activities.

3. Accommodation costs

- This is an amount that some people pay to contribute towards or cover the full costs of their room, depending on their means assessment.

Hotelling contribution (1 November 2025 fee arrangements)

The government pays a hotelling supplement to providers, which tops up the basic daily fee to cover the cost of daily living services. The hotelling supplement is means tested and indexed in March and September each year. Your income and assets (means) will be assessed to work out if you need to contribute towards it in the form of a hotelling contribution.

The contribution will be up to a limit of the hotelling supplement, $22.15 per day. If you are asked to contribute part but not all of the hotelling supplement, the government will pay the rest. For example, if you are asked to pay $2 per day towards your hotelling supplement (based on your means assessment), the government will pay the remaining $20.15.

Non-clinical care contribution (1 November 2025 fee arrangements)

If your means assessment resulted in you paying the full hotelling contribution, you may also be asked to make a contribution towards your non-clinical care.

Your contribution covers non-clinical care costs such as bathing, mobility assistance, and lifestyle activities. The non-clinical care contribution is similar to the means tested care fee. However, it excludes a person's cost of clinical care and is capped daily at $105.30 per day, while the means tested care fee is capped annually.

If you need to pay the non-clinical care contribution, Services Australia will let you and your provider know the amount once you enter care.

A lifetime cap means that residents no longer have to pay the non-clinical care contribution once they reach $135,318.69 (indexed) in total contributions, or after 4 years of cumulative contributions — whichever comes first. Fees paid under the Support at Home program also count towards this lifetime cap.

The daily and lifetime caps change with indexation in March and September. Learn more about changes to aged care fees, annual and lifetime caps while in residential aged care.

If your income and assets are below the thresholds, the government will continue to pay the full hotelling supplement. If you need to pay a hotelling contribution, Services Australia will let you and your provider know the amount once you enter care.

Refundable accommodation deposit (RAD) / refundable accommodation contribution (RAC) retentions

RAD/RAC retention applies to everyone who first enters residential aged care on or after 1 November 2025 and pays by refundable deposit (RAD or RAC) in full or in part. Under this arrangement, providers will keep a small portion of each new RAD or RAC. The amount retained is calculated at a rate of 2% per annum. This rate is applied to the daily RAD or RAC balance, with the amount deducted regularly.

After 5 years, no more retention amounts will be deducted. This is to protect residents who remain in care for a long time.

Accommodation payments are payable from the day of admission. The amount an individual is required to pay is based on Centrelink's assessment of the income / means-tested amount, which is calculated using a resident's assessable income and assets.

An accommodation payment is payable where a resident's income / means-tested amount is greater than zero.

This information sheet is for indicative guidance only and should not be interpreted as a contractual document. Exact rates and fees change periodically by the Department of Health / Department of Social Services. Please refer to the Government website or contact the My Aged Care for correct and up-to-date information.

Residents have the option of paying the accommodation payment as:

- A fully refundable lump sum referred to as a Refundable Accommodation Deposit (RAD) or Refundable Accommodation Contribution (RAC)
- Periodic payments referred to as a Daily Accommodation Payment (DAP) or Daily Accommodation Contribution (DAC)
- A combination of RAD / RAC and DAP / DAC

Residents paying a combination of RAD / RAC and DAP / DAC may decide to pay the DAP/DAC or other fees by drawing them down from the RAD / RAC. This has the effect of reducing the refundable balance, and the facility can increase the DAP / DAC commensurate with the reduction in the RAD / RAC balance.

Residents have up to 28 days after entry to decide how to pay for their accommodation, though a decision can be made sooner if preferred, e.g. upon entry. A resident's choice must be made in writing. Until a decision is made, the default payment choice applied is a DAP / DAC.

For Further Information:

If you have any general queries regarding fees, please contact Wongaburra Admissions on (07) 5540 1400.

For more detailed information, please contact My Aged Care on 1800 200 422 or visit the My Aged Care website www.myagedcare.gov.au.

For assistance with financial or legal matters, please speak to your financial planner and / or legal advisor.

¹ The lifetime cap means that over your lifetime you will not be asked to pay more than $66,610.90 as at January 2020 for all aged care services you may receive, whether they are home support or residential care or a combination of both.

This information sheet is for indicative guidance only and should not be interpreted as a contractual document. Exact rates and fees change periodically (generally six monthly) by the Department of Health / Department of Social Services. Please refer to the Government website or contact the My Aged Care for correct and up-to-date information.

Base Interest Rate (BIR) from 1 April 2026	3.25%
Maximum interest on outstanding accommodation charge from 20 March 2026	2.50%

⁴ The MPIR applies for calculating accommodation costs for residents who enter residential care within this period (but not for those who were already in care prior to this period). For a resident paying the agreed room price, use the MPIR current on the day the room price was agreed. To calculate accommodation contributions for a low means resident, use the MPIR current at their date of entry to the service.

The MPIR applies for:

- Equivalence calculations for accommodation payments and contributions
- Accommodation bond agreements for pre 1 July 2014 residents
- Calculating interest payable by the provider on outstanding refundable deposit refunds

The BIR applies for:

- Accommodation bond agreements for pre 1 July 2014 residents
- Calculating interest payable by the provider on outstanding refundable deposit refunds

The maximum interest on outstanding accommodation charge is the amount of interest that may be charged under an accommodation charge agreement for a pre 1 July 2014 resident who has not paid the required amount (section 287-155 of the Aged Care Rules 2025).
